Update

Frontiers and the University of Salford form open access publishing agreement

The University of Salford has entered an institutional membership agreement with Frontiers. We will receive a discount on Article Processing Charges (APCs) for articles covered by this agreement and benefit from a streamlined invoicing process.

To submit your article under this institutional agreement, please select ‘University of Salford’ as institutional payer in the invoice section when submitting your article. Frontiers will then verify your eligibility with the Library and we will contact you to with details of how to apply for open access funding. If you have any queries email usir@salford.ac.uk

Festival of Research

The Library took part in several events for the University’s Festival of Research. We ran a session at SPARC explaining how to “Make the most of your (open) research”. We helped at Research in the Park and the Library hosted the Living Library event, in which academics could be “borrowed” by people to hear about their publications. Here’s Bill Ayres, Research Data Manager, and I on our stand at the IMMERSE event at Media City. It was a great experience meeting so many of our researchers. If you want us to attend any events to promote open research, please get in touch.

Many thanks,

Wendy Taylor
