

MA/RN NURSING (MENTAL HEALTH)

COURSE SUMMARY

Our Nursing programmes embody a shared philosophy that represents the values and beliefs of key partners, including: students, patients, service users and families, practice colleagues and university staff.

This course supports the development of professional behaviours, inter-professional working, values and attitudes expected of a compassionate nurse, such as: connectedness, emotional intelligence, and moral responsibility and creativity.

A wealth of facilities at university are available to you, including formal teaching, group and one-to-one sessions, a comfortable and enriching learning space with state-of-the-art-clinical and immersive simulation suites.

50% of your studies will be spent across hospital and community settings, working alongside qualified assessors and supervisors. You will experience the realities of 24-hour service provision working night shifts and weekends. You will also have the opportunity to go on an international placement.

COURSE CONTENT

During the course, you will study modules such as Exploring Mental Health Field Specific Care Needs; Exploring Evidence-based Interventions in Nursing; Establishing Integrated Nursing Practice; Being a Judicious, Contemporary and Autonomous Mental Health Practitioner; Consolidation of Integrated Nursing Practice.

CAREER PROSPECTS

You will work alongside a practice supervisor and assessor in the clinical practice areas where you will experience a wide variety of care-giving settings. You will be expected to work the same shift patterns as your practice supervisors (including weekends and night duty) and will need to be able to travel to and from clinical placements.

You will spend half of your time at the University and the other half gaining experience in a range of clinical areas including the NHS, Private, Independent and Voluntary organisations.

By the end of the programme you will be able to evidence 2,300 hours of theoretical learning and 2,300 practice learning (4,600 hours in total) in order to be eligible to apply for registration as a Registered Nurse
