1. Purpose

- 1.1. This document outlines the principles and regulations governing the design, approval, amendment, review and withdrawal of taught programmes leading to University of Salford credit or awards, including collaborative programmes delivered wholly or in part by other institutions under affiliation agreements.
- 1.2. In defining its own programme design, approval, amendment, review and withdrawal policy and procedures, the University takes account of best practice in the UK Higher Education sector and the UK Quality Code for Higher Education .
- 1.3. When considering and reviewing programmes, the University ensures that all relevant business issues (e.g. strategic, financial, resource, legal and reputational) are given due consideration and that any identified risks are appropriately managed.
- 1.4. The University is responsible for the academic standards of its awards and the quality of its programmes. This policy and related procedures are mechanisms to assure academic standards and quality of provision for the University, external stakeholders and students.

2. Scope

- 2.1. This policy applies to all credit bearing provision approved by the University of Salford wherever delivered and includes:
 - Programme development and design.
 - Programme and module approval (including stand-alone modules).
 - Programme and module amendment.
 - Periodic programme review and re-approval (PPRR).
 - Withdrawal of programmes and temporary suspension of recruitment to programmes.

3. Policy Statements

Strategic Oversight and Evaluation

- 3.1. Academic authority rests with the University's Senate which has the primary duty to oversee the academic quality and standards of the University. On behalf of Senate, the Academic Standards and Quality Assurance Committee (ASQAC) is responsible for ensuring that this policy and related procedures are applied systematically and evaluated, implementing changes where necessary.
- 3.2. Senate has delegated responsibility for decisions about programme business matters including approving proposals for new partnerships for both UK and overseas to the Academic Development and Partnerships Committee (ADPC) and responsibility for academic decisions to the Programme Approval and Review Panel (PARP). See here for the Scheme of Academic Governance. Decisions about programme withdrawal and suspension to recruitment are normally devolved to Deans of Schools.

Process

- 3.3. Procedures and guidance relating to the following are available in Programme Development and Review: Procedures and Guidance document (see Related Documentation section):
- Programme development and design.
 - Programme and module approval (including stand-alone modules).
 - Programme and module amendment.
 - Periodic programme review and re-approval.
 - Withdrawal of programmes and temporary suspension of recruitment to programmes.
- 3.4. The procedures identify the roles and responsibilities of key staff.

Externality

- 3.5. The University makes use of external participation in its programme-related procedures to ensure independence and objectivity. It uses External Advisors and External Examiners with appropriate academic knowledge and experience and, where applicable, representatives of Professional, Statutory and Regulatory Bodies (PSRBs) when considering new programmes or reviewing existing programmes. The function of the External Advisor and External Examiner is to comment independently, objectively and with authority on the academic quality of the programme under consideration. Criteria and the process for appointment of External Advisors are available in the Programme Development and Review: Procedures and Guidance (see Related Documentation section). The Chair of PARP will escalate to ASQAC or SELTEC any conditions or recommendations from PARPs that have a wider University implication.
- 3.6. Internal peer review is demonstrated through the PARP membership, which includes an independent Chair.

Student Involvement

- 3.7. The University embeds student involvement at all stages of programme design, approval amendment, review and re-approval. This is described in the detailed guidance supporting this policy: Programme Development and Review: Procedures and Guidance.
- 3.8. Student involvement is continued through the PARP membership, which includes Students' Union representation.

Stakeholder Engagement

- 3.9. All stakeholders involved in these processes will receive training or guidance to enable them to contribute effectively.

Programme Development and Design

- 3.10. All programmes and modules must comply with the University's programme design principles as set out in the Industry Collaboration Zone \(ICZ\) Curriculum:

- 3.11. All programmes must align with the University's Academic Regulations for Taught Programmes (see Related Documentation) (unless an approved exception is in place).
- 3.12. All programmes must align with requirements of the UK Quality Code for Higher Education, including Subject Benchmark Statements and, where applicable, other external references such as those of Professional, Statutory and Regulatory Bodies (PSRBs) and Higher/Degree Apprenticeship Standards.
- 3.13. All collaborative programmes shall satisfy the requirements for partnerships and collaboration as set out in the University's Collaborative Provision Policy and Procedure (See Related Documentation section).
- 3.14. The details of each programme and each module are documented on the University's Programme and Module Information System (PaMIS). Appendix 1a and 1b list the information in PaMIS which is deemed definitive course documentation for Programmes and Modules. Definitive course documentation can only be amended through the academic approval process set out in in this policy. Programme and module information prior to the introduction of PaMIS is documented on specifications held within the Programme and Module Specification Catalogue (PMSC).
- 3.15. When Schools are preparing a new programme proposal, they must consult with other Schools which have, or may have, an interest in the subject area, via the relevant Dean of School.
- 3.16. Guidance on programme design and pedagogy is available within the Programme Development and Review: Procedures and Guidance Document
- 3.17. Advice and guidance on the operation of this policy is available from the Quality and Enhancement Office, email QEO@salford.ac.uk

Programme suitability for Tier 4 (General) Students and other visas

- 3.18. This section (3.18 to 3.24) only applies to programmes where international students are required to study in the UK. Therefore, it does not apply to programmes (collaborative or otherwise) delivered wholly overseas or wholly online, as these students do not require a visa other than if they wish to come to the UK for graduation.
- 3.19. The University of Salford holds a Sponsor Licence issued by the Home Office that allows it to recruit and teach Tier 4 (General) students. In order to maintain our licence, the University's Home Office Compliance Programme Approval Checklist is completed for all new programmes, programme re-approvals and programme amendments. This Checklist is maintained by the Head of Home Office Compliance and overseen by the University's Home Office Compliance Assurance Group (HOCAG). It identifies the suitability of programmes for admission for the two most frequently used student visas: Tier 4 (General) student visas and Short-term study visas (See Related Documentation section for links).
- 3.20. The Home Office Compliance Programme Approval Checklist is completed at the Business Case Approval stage and reviewed at the Academic Case Approval stage to ensure that any changes in the details of a programme have not affected the suitability for Tier 4 (General) student visas and Short-term study visas.
- 3.21. Other visas (i.e. not Tier 4 (General) student visas and Short-term study visas) – The University recognises that there are several other visa types, including for example employees on Tier 2 visas that have specific Home Office Compliance requirements. The University Admissions team consider, on a case-by-case basis, the suitability of programmes for applicants intending to use these less common visa types.

Programme teams should seek the advice of the Head of Home Office Compliance prior to marketing programmes to applicants using the less frequently used visa types and whether they have a right to study.

- 3.22. Communicating visa requirements – Restrictions to visa types are clearly communicated when the programme for admission is marketed or advertised, and before any offers are made to applicants. Similarly, if a programme is not suitable for international students on a Tier 4 (General) student visa or a Short-term study visa this is communicated when the course is marketed or advertised.
- 3.23. Requirements for programmes offered to students on a Tier 4 (General) student visa (Level 3 only) – The programmes must be:
- Full-time programmes as defined in the Academic Regulations for Taught Programmes and generally taught through face-to-face delivery.
 - Have a minimum of fifteen hours a week contact time over 23 weeks a year in line with Home Office Visa and Immigration rules.
- 3.24. Requirements for programmes offered to students on a Tier 4 (General) student visa (Level 4 and above) – The programmes must be:
- Full-time programmes as defined in the Academic Regulations for Taught Programmes and generally taught through face-to-face delivery.
 - Have at least two 'contact points' per teaching week facilitated face-to-face by staff where this is a lecturer, researcher, technician, member of support staff or graduate teaching assistant of the institution, or a visiting or external specialist. See the Tier 4 Attendance Monitoring policy for further information about contact points. Note, it is recognised that during the Level 6 final project or dissertation stage and during the final 60 credits of a Level 7 Master's programme, there may be fewer contact points. Level 7 projects or dissertations carried out as part of a PGDip or PGCert must still meet the two contact point requirements.

4. Programme Approval Process

- 4.1. The programme approval process has two stages, Programme Business Case Approval and Academic Approval. For detailed information and guidance about the programme approval procedure see the Programme Development and Review: Procedures and Guidance Document

Business Implications and Decisions

- 4.2. Programme Business Case Approval considers the business case for the development of a new programme(s).
- 4.3. Operational and academic development plans should, where possible, include details of all new programmes in advance of their development.
- 4.4. Schools have responsibility for developing Programme Business Cases.
- 4.5. At Programme Business Case stage, Schools are responsible for ensuring that the programme design, including aims, are in line with earlier sections 3.10, 3.11, 3.12 and 3.13.
- 4.6. The Programme Business Case Approval stage of the process aims to ensure that:

- There is a sound business case and sufficient resources.
 - The marketing strategy is appropriate.
 - The programme is aligned with the School's and University's strategic direction.
 - Potential risks have been identified and plans are in place to manage them.
- 4.7. ADPC has overarching responsibility for the business case approval process but has delegated responsibility to schools for approving programmes which are deemed low risk as described in 4.8 below.
- 4.8. At the start of the programme approval process, the School leading the proposal assesses the risks in relation to the development of the new programme (or the major amendment) through completion of the online risk assessment form. Proposals that are, through this process, classified as low-risk then go through a low-risk business case approval process and are considered for approval by the Dean of School.
- 4.9. Throughout the business case approval process the School will be expected to update the risk review when and if circumstances change. The risk review is approved by the Deputy Dean of School. If the risks in relation to the proposal increase and it is no longer deemed to be low-risk, the proposal will revert to the standard business case approval process.
- 4.10. ADPC is responsible for determining and reviewing the criteria for the definition of low-risk programmes as part of its consideration of the annual report regarding programme approval activity. ADPC may change the criteria to meet changes in overall risks and/or nuances of individual schools, subject areas or level of study.
- 4.11. Business decisions which impact on recruitment to programmes must normally be completed no later than 30 November, 20 months before the first intake (September starts) in the academic year preceding delivery of the programme. Programme teams must consult Published Programme Approval Dates and Deadlines to ensure timely programme development and approval. Exceptions to the November deadline may apply to programmes that are not aligned to standard September starts and to programmes that have a demonstrable market, strong business case and align with University strategy.
- 4.12. New programmes are not advertised until the Programme Business Case is approved.
- 4.13. In addition to 4.8, programmes delivered through collaborative provision agreements are not advertised until approval for the partnership has been granted through the Collaborative Provision Procedure unless written provision is granted by the Chair of ASQAC.

Academic Decisions

- 4.14. Schools have responsibility for developing academic proposals for new programmes and for confirming, through their Associate Dean Academic that a case for Academic Approval can be submitted for consideration to the PARP.
- 4.15. Academic Approval is granted by the PARP. PARPs normally comprise five Panel members (including a Chair and, if required, a Deputy Chair) plus a student member. An External Advisor is also appointed to the Panel for new programme approvals and PPRRs. Due to the small numbers involved, in order to be quorate a PARP must comprise at least two University members (including the Chair or Deputy Chair) and an External Advisor should be present for new programme approvals and PPRRs.

- 4.16. In order to minimise the potential for conflicts of interest to arise, PARPs members are drawn from schools not responsible for leading on the delivery of the programme. In practice this mean there is one version of PARP made up of Panel members from two schools (W and X) that consider business from the other two schools (Y and Z). The other version of PARP has members from Y and Z and considers business from W and X. The pairing of schools changes annually to help ensure consistency of approach to the programme approval across the University and help share good practice. Members of PARP who are from the same School that is contributing to, but not leading a proposal may take part in the discussion about the item but must not act as Chair and should withdraw for the decision. The Chair or a resolution of the Panel can ask them to stay for the decision but they cannot vote.
- 4.17. The Academic Approval process aims to ensure that a new programme:
- Is aligned with University's design principles (3.10) and with institutional regulations, policies and procedures.
 - Is aligned with appropriate external references (see sections 3.11 and 3.12).
 - Has appropriate content.
 - Will be taught by staff with the appropriate skills and knowledge.
 - Will offer appropriate learning opportunities and support for students.
- 4.18. Academic Approval shall normally be granted no later than 31 January in the academic year preceding delivery of the programme to ensure that any timetabling implications can be accommodated. Programme teams must consult Published Programme Approval Dates and Deadlines to ensure timely academic case approval. Exceptions to this deadline may apply to programmes that are not aligned to standard September starts and to programmes that have a demonstrable market, strong business case and align with University strategy.
- 4.19. Documentation for Academic Approval shall normally be presented within six months of Business Case Approval.
- 4.20. New programmes are approved for a maximum of six academic years, starting from the academic year when Academic Approval took place.

Approval of Standalone Modules

- 4.21. All modules within a programme shall be approved as stand-alone modules.
- 4.22. A stand-alone module outside of a programme can be approved through the Programme and Module Amendment Procedure.

5. Programme/Module Amendment

- 5.1. For detailed information and guidance about the programme/module amendment procedure see the Programme Development and Review: Procedures and Guidance Document (See Related Documentation section).
- 5.2. The University's programme/module amendment process is intended to provide a framework for the modification and enhancement of programmes and modules so that they continue to accord with institutional regulations, policies and external expectations and are of a standard appropriate to the qualifications to which they lead.

- 5.3. The University's programme/module amendment process is also used for the approval of standalone modules.
- 5.4. External Examiners are asked to comment independently, objectively and with authority on the academic quality of any proposed amendments that may substantially affect the programme content and learning opportunities for students see External Examining for all Taught Programmes (See Related Documentation section).
- 5.5. Major programme and module amendments are defined in the Programme Development and Review: Procedures and Guidance Document and are approved by the PARP. The PARP should ensure that the factors listed in section 4.17 and, if applicable, the views of External Examiners are taken into consideration. Minor programme and module amendments are defined in and are approved by Associate Deans (Academic).
- 5.6. Changes to programmes may not be advertised or implemented until the programme amendment process is successfully completed.
- 5.7. The deadline for approval of programme and module amendments depends on the type of amendment and when it is due to be implemented. Amendments should be approved for the next entering cohort, before course/module information is issued to them. Changes which affect information already provided to applicants and/or existing students, such as course/module-related material information upon which they have made an informed decision, will normally only be approved for the next admissions cycle, unless these are clearly in the best interests of all students (see sections 5.9 to 5.11). The table below summarises the normal deadlines for programmes with a September start. Proposers of amendments should seek advice from the QEO regarding deadlines that apply to their proposed amendment. Exceptions to the deadlines may apply to programmes that are not aligned to standard September starts.

Table 2 - summarising nominal deadlines for approving various types of amendments (assumes change to be implemented the following September starts)

	Type of amendment	Deadline	Rationale
A	Programme name change	30 November (22 months before first intake on new name)	To ensure the amendment can be implemented in time for marketing deadlines
B	Amendments with timetabling or programme and/or module set up implications	31 January	To ensure the amendment can be implemented in advance of timetabling/set up deadlines
C	Amendments other than A and B above	31 March	To ensure amendment can be communicated and disseminated in time for the start of trimester 1 and comply with the Consumer Rights Act (2015)

* Note deadline for documentation will depend on dates of approval meetings see the Published Programme Approval Dates and Deadlines

- 5.8. Where amendments proposed for an existing programme have the potential to impact on the programme resources and/or marketing, a Programme Business Case shall be required. The approval route will depend on whether the programme is deemed to be standard or low risk as described in 4.2-4.13. This ensures that the revised programme continues to meet business requirements.
- 5.9. The University is required to comply with the Consumer Rights Act (2015) and to work with prospective and existing students when amendments are made to programmes or programmes are withdrawn, offering them alternative programmes or arranging transfers where appropriate.
- 5.10. Where existing students are, or may potentially be, affected by an amendment to a programme, a consultation should take place (normally via email) that clearly identifies the proposed changes. The students should be given a two week deadline to respond. Consultation should not take place during University holiday periods. Where the change potentially affects the core elements of existing students' programme(s), normally 80% of students should consent to the change. Provided that it can be properly demonstrated that students have been informed in an appropriate format (for example email) a nil response will be seen as consent. The process for consultation is available in the Programme Development and Review: Procedures and Guidance Document (see Related Documentation section).
- 5.11. Where prospective students are, or may potentially be, affected by an amendment to a programme, they are informed of the change following the process set out in the Programme Development and Review: Procedures and Guidance Document .

6. Periodic Programme Review and Re-approval (PPRR)

- 6.1. For detailed information and guidance about the PPRR procedure see the Programme Development and Review: Procedures and Guidance Document
- 6.2. The PPRR policy complements the Programme Monitoring and Enhancement Procedure and, for collaborative programmes only, the Collaborative Provision Policy and Procedures (see Related Documentation section).
- 6.3. Schools have responsibility for reviewing documentation required for PPRR and confirming, via their Associate Dean Academic, that the request for re-approval may be submitted for consideration via the PARP.
- 6.4. Re-approval is granted by the PARP. Membership of the PARP includes an independent Chair and an appropriate independent External Advisor (see section 3.5).
- 6.5. Where amendments proposed through the PPRR process have the potential to substantially impact on the programme resources and/or marketing, a Programme Business Case is required. The approval route will depend on whether the programme is deemed to be standard or low risk as described in 4.2-4.13. This is to ensure that the revised programme continues to meet business requirements.
- 6.6. The University complies with the Consumer Rights Act (2015) and liaises with prospective and consults existing students when amendments are made to programmes or programmes are withdrawn, offering them alternative programmes or arranging transfers where appropriate. Amendments should be approved for the next entering cohort, before course/module information is issued to them. Changes which affect information already provided to applicants and/or existing students, such as course/module-related material information upon which they have made an informed decision, will normally only be approved for the next admissions cycle, unless these are clearly in the best interests of all students (see sections 6.7 to 6.8).
- 6.7. Where existing students are, or may potentially be, affected by an amendment to a programme as a result of PPRR, a consultation should take place (normally via email) that clearly identifies the proposed changes. The students should be given a two week deadline to respond. Consultation should not take place during University holiday periods. Provided that it can be properly demonstrated that students have been informed in an appropriate format (for example email) a nil response will be seen as consent. Where the change potentially affects the core elements of existing students' programme(s), normally 80% of students should consent to the change. The process for consultation is available in the Programme Development and Review: Procedures and Guidance Document.
- 6.8. Where prospective students are, or may potentially be, affected by an amendment to a programme as a result of PPRR, they are informed of the change following the process set out in the Programme Development and Review: Procedures and Guidance Document.
- 6.9. The PPRR process aims to ensure that the programme presented for re-approval:
 - Has systematically reviewed the external (both in HE and more widely) and internal factors that may impact on the programme within the next six years and that any potential risks have been identified and plans are in place to manage them.
 - Has sought and considered the views of current and previous students, employers, External Advisors and (if applicable) PSRBs.

- Has identified and considered, any intractable or recurring issues in the Programme Action Logs prepared as part of PMEP.
 - Has a continued business case and sufficient resources (see also 6.5).
 - Is aligned with University's design principles (3.10) and with Institutional regulations, policies and procedures.
 - Is aligned with appropriate external references (see sections 3.11 and 3.12).
 - Has appropriate content.
 - Will be taught by staff with the appropriate skills and knowledge.
 - Will offer appropriate learning opportunities and support for students.
- 6.10. Additionally, the PPRR process aims to contribute to the identification and sharing of good practice at both local and institutional levels and propose actions to enhance programmes at a local and an institutional level.
- 6.11. Programmes can be re-approved for a maximum of six academic years, starting from the academic year when re-approval took effect from. This period can be reduced if there are appropriate internal or external requirements or concerns.
- 6.12. Programme changes are likely to arise through the PPRR process which impact on admissions or timetabling. To ensure that any changes can be implemented in a timely manner and avoid a clash with the deadlines for the approval of new programmes, all PPRRs should normally be completed by the end of the fifth academic year following the previous approval. The following academic year the programme will continue to be approved under its earlier approval whilst changes are implemented in advance of the next academic year. Exceptions to the deadline may apply to programmes that are not aligned to standard September starts.
- 6.13. Programmes may undertake PPRR singly or be presented for consideration as a group; in the latter case, the group of programmes should normally correspond to the grouping used for the purposes of PMEP as applicable.
- 6.14. Those Schools whose programmes are subject to validation or accreditation by an external body, e.g. a PSRB, may seek to combine the consideration of PPRR with the external re-validation or re-accreditation meeting, provided that the function of the PARP is fully achieved.
- 6.15. Programmes involving collaborative provision may bring forward PPRR to align with the review of the collaboration required under the University's Collaborative Provision Policy and Procedures (See Related Documentation section). The collaborative partners must be included in the PPRR process.
- 6.16. Changes to programmes as a result of PPRR may not be advertised or implemented until the PPRR has been approved by the PARP.

PPRR Requirements for Withdrawn Programmes

- 6.17. If a decision is made to withdraw a programme and not replace it with a similar programme, it is not required to undergo PPRR.
- 6.18. If a decision is made to withdraw a programme and replace it with a new, but similar programme, it should normally undergo a PPRR; this may mean bringing forward the PPRR. The new programme should be developed through the PPRR process; this process includes provision (6.5) for programme business matters to be considered by the ADPC.

7. Programme Withdrawal and Temporary Suspension to Recruitment

- 7.1. For detailed information and guidance about the programme withdrawal and temporary suspension to recruitment procedure see the Programme Development and Review: Procedures and Guidance Document (see Related Documentation section).
- 7.2. When considering the withdrawal of a programme or temporary suspension to recruitment, the following factors, as applicable, should be taken into account:
- Academic standards and quality of the programme.
 - Viability of and market demand for the programme (e.g. failure to attract sufficient students to allow the programme to run; impact of external funding changes).
 - Changes in PSRB requirements.
 - Availability of resources to support the programme at School level.
 - The impact on other programmes that share resources and/or modules.
- 7.3. Schools may suspend recruitment to specific programmes for a temporary period of up to two successive years.
- 7.4. The programme withdrawal and temporary suspension procedure in the Programme Development and Review: Procedures and Guidance Document includes proposals for teaching and managing students yet to complete the programme. These proposals must be completed in all situations i.e. including where the initial intention is to resume recruitment after a one year suspension. The plans for teaching and managing students yet to complete withdrawn programme or programmes where recruitment has been suspended, must be reviewed annually by the Dean of School or their nominated representative until the final cohort of students has finished.
- 7.5. A programme that has been withdrawn, or where recruitment has been suspended, should not be advertised or offered in any way. A withdrawn programme may be re-activated only by the approval of a new programme proposal.
- 7.6. Schools should normally avoid withdrawal of programmes or suspension to recruitment within an existing admissions cycle. Deans of School are responsible for decisions to withdraw or suspend the recruitment of programmes. School proposals to resume recruitment to a suspended programme are considered for approval by ADPC. The School provides ADPC with a business rationale as to why the School consider the issues that caused the initial suspension are resolved and recruitment should be resumed.
- 7.7. Where appropriate, the programme suspension and withdrawal process aims to contribute to the identification and sharing of lessons learned across the University.

8. Policy Enforcement: Role of the Academic Standards and Quality Assurance Committee (ASQAC)

- 8.1. ASQAC will oversee the effectiveness of and compliance with the programme design, approval, monitoring, review and withdrawal processes through audit and overview reports.
- 8.2. All decisions regarding programme approvals, re-approvals withdrawals and temporary suspension to recruitment must be reported to ASQAC to enable ASQAC to maintain a strategic overview of the University's academic portfolio, whilst ensuring local discretion for the currency and development of the academic portfolio.
