When searching for journal articles, limit your search to where full text is available within the database to prevent redirects to inaccessible documents:

The screenshot displays the EBSCOhost search interface. At the top, the search bar contains the text "supply chain risk management". A red arrow points from a text box on the right to this search bar, with the text "Type your search terms in the search bars." Below the search bar are three "AND" search fields, each with a "Select a Field (optional)" dropdown and a "Search" button. A "Clear" button is also present. Below the search fields are links for "Basic Search", "Advanced Search", and "Search History".

The "Search Options" section is visible below the search bar. It includes "Search Modes and Expanders" with radio buttons for "Boolean/Phrase" (selected), "Find all my search terms", "Find any of my search terms", and "SmartText Searching". There are also checkboxes for "Apply related words", "Also search within the full text of the articles", and "Apply equivalent subjects".

The "Limit your results" section is also visible. It has a "Full Text" checkbox which is checked, and a "Peer Reviewed" checkbox which is unchecked. A red arrow points from a text box on the right to the "Full Text" checkbox, with the text "Limit your results to articles including full text."

To use the library of company profiles first click on the Company Profiles link from the More drop-down menu at the top of the screen:

We take this opportunity to thank first all those who have contributed towards this special issue of International Journal of Management Reviews. The reviewing was a double-blind process; we greatly appreciate the work of the reviewers who have taken time to provide timely feedback to the authors, thereby helping the authors to improve their manuscripts: Ralf Barkemeyer, Debra Basil, Guido Berens, Dana Branzel, Sally Gunz, Ans Kolk, John Pelozo, Maria May Seltanidi, Tage Skjøtt-Larsen, Joëlle Vanhamme and David Walters.

We also extend special thanks to the Editors, Steve Armstrong and Adrian Wilkinson, for giving us the opportunity to guest edit this special issue of International Journal of Management Reviews. Last but not least, we warmly thank all the authors who submitted their manuscripts for consideration in International Journal of Management Reviews. We appreciate and are grateful for the authors' desire to share their knowledge and experience with the journal's readers – and for having their views put forward for possible challenge by their peers. We are confident that the papers in this special issue contribute to a greater, more detailed understanding of CSR. We also hope that the selected papers will generate the kind of dialogue that is necessary to further understanding in this important area.

Theses – towards the end of your programme you might have to complete a thesis or dissertation – some students like to look at examples and we have various resources you can use. Your tutor should provide you with details about the format they want you to use and the Library has guides to writing your dissertation and formatting your dissertation.

There are databases which give you access to past dissertations & theses – most institutions only digitise research awards such as PhDs – this shouldn't matter if you want to look at the layout, contents pages, bibliography etc.

The databases include:

ProQuest Central - The largest curated database of master's and Doctoral works in the world. With more than 5.1 million records (including in excess of 2.7 million full-text works), contributed by 4,000 of the world's most prestigious research institutions. To search, click on the Dissertations & Theses tab, type in your search terms and limit your self to where full text is available.

Salford E-theses Collection Research theses which have been successfully submitted and passed by the University of Salford are available for download. Awards eligible for inclusion in this collection are PhD, MPhil, MSc by research, MRes, DProf, DLit, DMA, DSc. To find a thesis, use the quick search box, or the browse options in the left-hand menu. The Salford collection is relatively small so to look at a theses /dissertation on your topic you might have to search beyond the Salford collection.
